What are the models for healthcare compacts?

There are 2 basic models being used in the healthcare licensing and regulatory fields:

- Privilege to Practice Model
- Expedited Licensure Model

Privilege to Practice Model

- Basic premise
 - Allows the privilege holder to practice in a remote state under the scope of practice of the state where the patient is located when receiving care.
 - Must hold a license in a “Home” state and be practicing in a “Member” state.
- Advantages
 - Cost limited to obtaining and maintaining a single license
 - Allows for multi-state practice without obtaining licenses
- Disadvantages
 - Tracking the practitioner – most states remedy with a registration or similar process
 - Ensuring compliance with state based requirements
 - Documenting eligibility for malpractice insurance, billing, and other administrative tasks

Expedited Licensure Model

- Basic premise
 - Creates an expedited process to obtain licenses in multiple states.
 - Must hold a license in a “Home” state and can not begin practice until the license is obtained to practice in “Member” states.
- Advantages
 - A clear demonstration of authorization to practice is provided by each license obtained.
 - Allows for multiple state licensure quickly and effectively through a single application process.
 - Cost effective for 3 or more license applications.
 - Clear documentation of eligibility for malpractice, billing and other administrative tasks
- Disadvantages
 - Cost to obtain multiple licenses.
 - Ensuring compliance with state based requirements.

Interstate
Medical Licensure
Compact

Compact Administration

- It is a statutorily established governmental instrumentality, as recognized by IRS code § 115.
- The compacts are “created” by each member board state when legislation is passed and signed by the governor. This action makes the compact a discretionary state function – i.e. a part of that state’s government. Although the compact itself remains a unique entity beyond an individual state’s requirements.
- The compacts have rulemaking authority established in the initial legislation, which is binding on the member states.
- Generally, the compact is governed by commissioners appointed from each state with an elected Executive Committee.
- Administration is conducted by support staff employees, or a contracted organization serving as a “Secretariat”.
- The administrative part of the compact is headed by an Executive Director. The Executive Director generally also serves as an officer of the compact, most often as the compact’s Secretary.
- Funding models vary. However, most compacts are supported and receive financial assistance from the associated professional organization and/or member states.

Subject: [EXTERNAL]RE: IMLCC - Special Executive Committee Meeting - January 24, 2023

Executive Committee,

I am submitting the attached comments as one of the IMLC Commissioners representing the state of Alabama.

The attached comments were previously submitted by Alabama in response to the call for comments on the proposed PA Draft Model Legislation back in 2021. Although some amendments have been made to the model legislation since that time, the most current version (October 2022) still provides for a "Compact Privilege" instead of a license issued by the individual states, therefore the attached comments still apply.

Alabama fully supports the IMLC and its model and is of the strong opinion that the same model should also be applied to the PA Compact.

I look forward to discussing this further at our meeting next week.

Thank you,

Alabama Board of Medical Examiners
